"And what a fight!" a reporter said.

"Twenty-one straight knockouts!" exclaimed another reporter. "That brings your total up to a hundred forty-four, doesn't it?"

"No, this one makes a hundred forty-five knockouts in three hundred five fights," Jim said.

Pop Foster, Jim's manager, roared into the dressing room and shoved his way through the group around Jim. "Sorry, Jim, I forgot this," Pop said, holding out a wrinkled telegram. "It came just before we left the hotel. Hope it's nothing serious."

Jim ripped open the envelope. He jumped and darted across the room to his closet, shouting, "My little boy's sick with pneumonia! I gotta get medicine to him quick. Get a glass, Pop. Hurry! Hurry!"

Because a snowstorm surrounded the mountain range for which Jim was headed, no one wanted to fly him. Finally, he located the old friend who took him to a small town, easting in the foothills. On landing, Jim found that all modes

Woman Train For Science.
The world of science is making trained women welcome.
And a former school teacher from West Virginia who knew this is a fact, says women should return the compliment. By making careers for themselves in the scientific world.

Mrs. Maxine Breneman, a top authority on the scientific policy of petroleum, is the first woman scientist to be promoted to the position of group leader in America's biggest oil research firm (Esso Research and Engineering Company, Linden, New Jersey).

Mrs. Breneman is among the search company after joining high school chemistry and mathematics who are also the focus of a research scientist in her field.

She also feels women chemists can make vital contributions to the national economy. As she put it, "particularly at this time when the threat of scientific espionage."

Maxine's attitude toward the benefits of civil-civilian life is so strong, that it migrated, and now it is a chemical engineer who also operates in oil, only at the University of the scientific policy. His work involves the development of new and better fuels and lubricants for automobile engines.

Mrs. Breneman is recognized for her enthusiasm for encouraging more women to enter scientific fields.

Save Mrs. Breneman. "The country and industry would be making a serious mistake if they did not encourage and utilize her professional training."

express our deepest appreciation towards all our friends, neighbors and family. Ladies Auxiliary, Canadian League, Victoria School, Rev. Mc-Queen, and organizations, for all the help and support in making the reception of our dear daughter, Lorraine.

Your circle, comforting words, devotions, and floral tributes, will never be forgotten. We thank everyone so very much.

Believe and pray very much.
Mrs. John Nankovitch (1983)

I wish to express, my sincere thanks and appreciation for the kindness of the many friends and relatives, during my recent illness, especially thanking Rev. R.
McQueen, The Canadian and my special nurse, and nursing staff of West Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. John Nankovitch (1983)

Mrs. and Mrs. Lavonia McComb have left on a short week tour of the "West" attending the Calgary
Stampede, also visiting Banff and Lake Louise.

Mrs. and Mrs. H. Graham, R. R. 1, Lindsay, celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary with a community surprise party at their home.
The anniversary was actually "Two Days" but the family had arranged a very successful party to be held on this first anniversary day of their wedding, and more than 30 relatives and close friends assembled at the flower - decorated home of the "silver couple."

The family presented Mr. and Mrs. H. Graham with a Diamond and their dear near close friends were presented.

The many friends of Bert G.
Graham, are glad to learn he is convalescing, having been in hospital for some time, and, undergoing surgery.

DIRECTOR 366. Architect Robert Dawson, of Montreal, has designed this three-bedroom ranch bungalow in the best of "ranch" conception. However, the dimensions are such that the most common house construction can be substituted. The total floor area of the house is 1,196 square feet while the greater dimensions are 46 feet by 36 feet. Working drawings for the plan may be obtained at minimum cost from General Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

If we love one another, God abides in us, and his love is perfected in us. 1 John 4:19
It is love that binds the universe together. If we are in harmony with the Infinite Father we will certainly love our brethren.

With a gleaming blimp overhead, the Mayflower II under full sail receives the celebrated guest treatment as the glides up N.Y. harbor. Besides circling planes and blimp, boats whistled and tugs tooted, and many pleasure craft accompanied the replica of the Pilgrim ship toward the pier where she will be berthed for the summer. Aboard were a number of city dignitaries who comprised the official greeting party for the ship.

The personal, private flying sedan of 1947 will be this Miller aerial automobile according to Popular Mechanics magazine. The artist's conception shows a four-door, four-passenger sedan rising from the lawn, lifted by its four diaphragm fans, preparatory to horizontal flight at a cruising range of 60 mph.

"Well—here goes" seems to be the sentiment of Queen Elizabeth Adenike of Ibadan, Nigeria, as she prepares to sample her first hot dog. The African tribal leader is visiting Pittsburgh, Pa., as part of a tour under the auspices of the international exchange services of the U. S. State Department. The marks visible on her cheeks are tribal marks.

One of two British Herons ordered by the West German government, bears the insignia of Germany on its wings as it is put into service for communications and as a personal transport for General Kommandeur, Luftwaffe chief of air staff. The four-engined executive aircraft is known in Bonn as "the flying conference," since space reserved for food and drinks now is occupied by filing cabinets which contain important documents.

An entire Iranian family squats on the stones of their demolished home after the earthquake that shook a large area of their country. Government sources estimate that at least 5,000 persons were killed. Total damage will not be known for some time because of the remoteness of some of the areas stricken by the tremors.

Taking a page out of the prehistoric past, 75-year-old Friedrich Bugig has designed a paddle mechanism craft utilizing twin fins copied from the fins of saurians that lived millions of years ago. Cruising down the Rhine river, Bugig drives the boat along via foot pedals and supporting rowing movements with his arms. Each movement of the fins, downward as well as upward, propels the craft smoothly through the water. The inventor estimates that maneuvering his boat requires only a quarter of the effort needed to propel a similar craft with ordinary hand paddles.

Mr. Jack Dunigan and her son David show the rope which they say, was used by two armed, masked robbers who tied them up after stealing $2,000 from their Bedford, Ont., farm home. The banknote is believed to have taken several bottles of beer from the Dunigan refrigerator while waiting for the family to come home from a visit. Mr. Dunigan attracted with the pair, was knocked down with a rifle butt. Mr. Dunigan managed to free himself after the bandits left.

Betty Hayes was hard as he bent on the, the smoke bending and stretching him as he cooked. It certainly is like it, she thought, no wonder Tim's made good in the Army. You can't make him hold, "Enough."

Finally he straggled out, holding a frying pan of burned trout and prettily set it down on a rock he had converted into a table for their tin plates and cups. But, before he could demand praise for his prowess as an outdoor cook, the coffee boiled heavily, then cracked the topping of grounds and shut up a fragrant geyser of hot coffee.

"I'll pour it," Betty offered.

"Please don't," Tim cautioned her to stay where she was. "I do the work this trip. What does a girl who has spent her life in the city know about camping?"

"Well," began Betty.

"No need to apologize, darling." He smiled as he settled the coffee grounds under a dash of cold water.

"A fellow like me, raised on a farm, just naturally knows how to do things. It was because you're arrogant that I fell in love with you."

"I acknowledge I wasn't a camping enthusiast until I met you," Betty smiled fondly. "Until I met Betty."

"Listen, sweet, I've dreamed of doing this ever since I met you. Practically the only thing that kept me going when it was tough were seas was dreaming of you and me together on a camping trip."

Betty loved him better than anyone on earth. Her feeling was something more than love for her man; it was stronger, tinged with that maternal quality that causes a woman to treat her husband as if he were a small boy. Bravely she ate the burned fish and half-donut biscuits, washed down by perfect coffee. When she wanted a third cup his eyes lightened and he asked, "You're happy aren't you, Betty?"

"Of course, I'd be happy anywhere with you."

Tim frowned. "That's not what I mean. Do you really like this sort of thing? Don't you? You know I promised I'd show you a new type of life a city girl never dreamed of."

"No," Tim spoke regretfully.

Amused, then added, "But you were a boy scout as a youngster."

"No," Tim spoke regretfully.

There were no scout troops where I lived."

"But you roughed it at the Moon and Dad and the kids. You'll love my folks. Glad you're joining us. What time is it now in the open, know that I've met the type of girl I'd love."

Betty blew Tim a kiss. He was sweet. She was fortunate to have married him, though she had known him only a few weeks. She would never forget their brief but marvelous three-day honeymoon. She knew she would like his people, for their interest had been as friendly. She was dubious about their joining them here. Still, if Tim was sure they would not mind burned fish, she in the margin and raw biscuits, she needn't worry.

The day before his boy was to arrive, stopped at his log and expressed his anxiety. Tenderly Betty helped him into camp and settled up. Amazed at her skill he said, "You must have taken an Omelette course while I was gone."

"Everybody knows first aid," she smiled. "Feel better?"

"Much, but I'll be helpless for several days. We'll have to stay here, because I can't handle the car is parked. What really worries me is to have to go to the bathroom where they're ready for dinner tomorrow when I'll take like a hungry and tired."

"I'm good at taking orders," she answered lightly. "In the morning we'll make you comfortable on the lake shore and you can fish while I get things in order."

Next day Tim made miles of anxious suggestions. Betty accepted them smiling, then ignored them. Toward evening she helped him into the cold water for a swim, then relieved the pain in his neck.

Just as he finished dressing, balloons came from the ridge above. Betty was pressing to the crowd of pleasant men and women whose eyes gleamed with sympathy as they greeted her. Everyone ready to go, she asked.

"And how?" grinned Tim's brother.

"What is there?"

"New don't be critical of Betty," broke in Tim. "If I hadn't hurt my ankle I'd have prepared supper."

"Bill," interrupted Betty. "The beans are in the ground over there. Please get them."

Some dinner was spread before them. Potatoes beans done to a turn, lake trout cooked perfectly in damp leaves, salad of mince's lettuce, fluffy blinis, wild blackberries and coffee.

Betty was aware of Tim's wondering glance. At last he could stand it no longer. "How come that a girl reared in the city knows more about camping than I, an old-timer?" he demanded.

"Darling," said Betty, "your mother wrote me you were a camp-leader kind, as a friend of mine, who is a Camp Fire Girl counselor, took me in hand while you were away."

INACTION IN A DANGEROUS SITUATION

A visit to Kinmount on Tuesday indicated clearly that the residents in the low-lying areas of the village had put in an uneasy weekend with the threat of flood hanging over their heads. The flood threat arose when a log boom located just east and north of the new highway bridge spanning the Burnt River, broke its bonds and went hurtling towards the bridge, menacing it and spilling over to threaten a newly-constructed dam further along.

According to information we obtained from Kinmount, the residents of the village as present as long as log booms are permitted to remain in the river at the point mentioned. On at least one occasion in the past the village had experienced flood (it was also wiped out by fire on two occasions) and the citizens have no desire to have a second experience.

As a result of further interviews it was learned that a movement has been in progress for at least four years to have the precariousness of the situation alleviated by the removal of the log boom. It is interesting to bring about this safety measure told this newspaper in the course of the conversations that their efforts had been thwarted by what they termed "political conniving." Some evidence to support their belief was presented in the form of documents.

It is our thoughtful conclusion that some co-operative measure to remedy the situation could be adopted "post haste" without undue inconvenience. The residents are endeavouring to accumulate more material relative to the situation and it is our determination to have a close look at the facts.

A TWO-WAY STREET

A resident of the City of Toronto is not entirely satisfied with the hospital expansion committee's proposal to have the Town of Lindsay pay through taxes as well as the County of Victoria. He pointed out that double taxation would result in about a reduction of 10 per cent of the town's income in the county and a 10 per cent in the Town of Lindsay. The same would apply if the Town residents owned property in the County.

He stated that the residents of the town feel it is something which has been overlooked when the subject of taxation is raised. It is therefore quite possible that the residents of the town may have to pay in both Town and County and not prove too popular when realized.

The world's largest radio telescope, erected in its spider-like construction of girders, near completion at Cheshire, England. Shaped like a huge searchlight, the steel bowl is 250 feet in diameter, 22 feet, 6 inches in depth at the centre. This bowl is the main mirror and at completion will weigh 500 tons. The nerve centre of the telescope, which can be rotated in any direction toward ground and sky, is a radio aerial capable of receiving radar waves and wavelengths between 10 and 50 centimeters and 30 meters. The new radio telescope will be the largest single instrument ever made for scientific research and will cost an estimated $1,250,000. Sponsored by the department of industrial and scientific research and the Nuffield foundation, it will be operated by scientists from Manchester university.

LOVE LETTERS IN THE SAND

WEDDING

STEELE-BURNS

At St. James' Anglican Church, Toronto, Pa. L. Steele, Albert A. Burner, young man, and Miss Dorothy Steele, daughter of Mr. George Bernard Steele, son of Mr. Daniel Steele, and the late Mrs. Steele.

Rev. T. B. Gault, rector of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony, and the organist was Mrs. Herbert Twissley.

Mr. Steele's Gray gave the bride in marriage; Mrs. Kenneth Coulter was the second and before the entrance of the bride she sang "The Lord's Prayer," and during the singing of the Hymn "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride entered the church to the strains of "Bride and King of Heaven," the loudest sound in a volume-length was of white pointed lace and new overalls. Her face was adorned with gold pearls and rainbow at-que, held her veil—long veil, and she carried red roses and sympathy.

Mrs. Louis Lane was matron of honor for her sister, and Lou Norther was bridesmaid. They were given away in heavenly blue rayon over tulle, with attached shoes, flower headbands, and embroidered ribbons and white accessories.

Mr. Steele was his brother's best man, and Louis Lane ushered. For receiving as the Canon The Rev. after the ceremony, the mother of the bride chose a blue lace sheath dress with matching jacket, white accessories, and a cascade of white corsages.

Following the reception, the happy couple left in a trip to Niagara Falls. For travelling, the bride wore a pale blue sheath with matching jacket, white accessories, and a cascade of white corsages.

The junior ring presented "The Shepherd's Song," sung by George Coppins and Rodger Lane; piano solo, Minnie; by Donna Mae Taylor. "Morning Compliments" by Donna Mae Taylor, Sharon Anderson, and Marion Mark.

The rhythm band was conducted by Van Parkin and Sharon Anderson.

Totem Poles Preserved for Posterity

In an old Indian burial ground, on bird-shaped Cormorant Island, at Alert Bay, B.C., Indian craftsmen carved this imposing totem-pole, one of the few to depict the female figure. Today the craft, more than 2 centuries old, is in danger of disappearing; government sponsored projects in B.C. are attempting to keep the art alive and preserve specimens of the grotesquely fascinating art for posterity.

National Film Board of Canada Plans by Bernard Atkinson

Most totem poles are heraldic emblems, much like a family crest, depicting the history, often legendary, of its owner. Mythical figures supplied the subject-matter, desire for social prestige, the incentive.

Early Indian artists had only crude paints—burnt ochre, black, white, red, and yellow—applied with porcupine hair brushes. Today only the finest pigments are used.

Mr. Mungo Martin, left, one of the few remaining experts in the art of totem carving, is in charge of the restoration of this colourful Indian art form at Thunderbird Park, B.C.

Indian artists had in almost limitless choice of characters to choose from and few clear-cut rules governed the choice or order of the figures on the pole. Thus the only persons who fully understood the carvings were the owner and those to whom he recited the legends, as was invariably done at a tribal dance when the pole was raised. However some knowledge of Indian art and mythology will take the outsider a good part of the way in unlocking the secrets of B.C.'s picturesque totem poles.

A BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Is not the carpenter, the son of Mary, the brother of James, and Jesus, and John and Simon?—Mark 6:3.

In Egypt and some other countries of antiquity men had to follow the trade or profession of their fathers. Christ showed that this was necessary by the men making him.

He showed that fishermen and tent-makers and humble men could turn the world upside down.

Six Year Old Was Not Missed Until Birthday Party Assembled

A six-year-old Lindsay youth lost his life in a mystery drowning at Long Beach, Wednesday evening.

The body of David Langdon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Langdon, of 65 Langdon and Ross, Lindsay, was taken from Long Beach Lake at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday evening, having been discovered by Clifford Breen, who in his canoe was one of a party searching for the missing child.

The boat was located about 100 feet from the end of the dock in connection with the canoe of Mr. and Mrs. Langdon, but it was at this point it blew 100 feet down the lake.

The Post learned Mrs. Breen was the former Mrs. Langdon, and aunt of the drowned boy.

31. Harry Twilley, of Oakville, was with Mr. Breen at the time of discovery.

"The Post" learned that a birthday and picnic celebration was being held at the home of Mrs. Breen and Mrs. Lloyd Langdon, the birthday of Paul, brother of David, was celebrated in attendance including John, Paul, Lloyd Jr., and baby Brian, children of David.

In the swimming at the dock before the birthday supper, the children were supervised with adults.

The Post learned that David was when all were assembled for the birthday party that David was missed, but it was thought he had merely drifted away from the neighboring cottage, in July or nearly had done and fell away outside.

The Breen couple is alleged some distance north of the government docks on the lakeshore road, it was located.

When the boy did not return the whole room was alerted and a search was made on land and water.

When the boy was located, he was taken to the adjacent lake shore.

When the boy was located Dr. William O'Neil, of Lindsay, Ontario, was called.

John Breen and Dr. William O'Neil of Lindsay, Ontario, was called.

After 1 1/2 hours, life was pronounced extinct.

When the body was recovered, it was checked out by an ambulance truck. When or how the boy was drowned still remains a mystery.

Recreation Director John Thorne, vice chairman of the Lindsay Recreation Board, held his August 3rd of Centennial weekend visits to remind all those groups connected with the city that there are more ways to recreation than to the Recreation Centre, Lindsay.

"We anticipate a large crowd will be on hand to witness the contest and take part in the public dance in Lindsay," he said.

He said that the Lindsay Recreation Board and the K-H race boys are preparing their program for music, and there will be some entertainment during the evening as well.

"We should have a good contest, but we'll see the entire in as soon as possible, as we can finalize our program," he said.

Donald Ross, Gone Within Two Minutes

Regarding the drowning of ten-year-old Donald Ross, Ross on Monday evening in Kenosha Lake, near Lindsay, was held further details.

David was sitting on the outside steps of the dining-room of the Har and Co. Laundry, when his grandmother, Mrs. Winter Breen, who was a cook there, was called to the telephone.

Within two minutes she looked out again but Donald was nowhere to be seen.

"A search was made and even shortly after the body was seen floating in the surface of the pond by neighbors."

VALENTIA DOWNS L'BRITAIN 6-5, IN HOME GAME

Valentia (PWS)—Valentia downed L. Britain 6-5 on the home diamond of the Independent League in a well-contested ball game.

At seven o'clock Mr. Henry of Lindsay was on deck and called "play ball" with Mr. Clarence Parliament of Oakwood as base umpire.

The Little Britain boys were up in the first half and were held on base, the last half of the innings Bill Marx made the rounds to get the home team one run up.

The next innings bells being rung held down, with L. B. coming to bat in the 3rd inning to count three runs with Jenkins. Walsford, Walsford, counted home plate to take the lead of one run ahead, the Valentia boys came up in the last half and the minor was ending with the last score set to love (in the Valentia team).

R. Jewell was the catcher for L.B. with R. Jewell on the pitcher's mound. Stewart, Grillo grabbed a good game with Joe Chumbley in the catcher's box.

Little Britain line up:
R. Jewell, R. Jewell, J. Jewell, D. Jewell, L. McTaggart, D. Walsford, R. G. G. Brown, J. Brown, R. Nottingham came into the game in the 5th inning.

Valentia:
J. Thompson, S. Grillo, P. Martin, D. Pearson, G. Grillo, K. Mark, B. Starr, B. Alex, M. Crowden.

Score by innings—
L. Britain—1st 2-5—8 runs.
Valentia—1st 3-5—8 runs.

"My Business is Groceries..."

"It is my business to give the people of this community the very best in food values, prompt service, courteous treatment. The kind of merchandise that goes on my shelves has a lot to do with my success, so I sell good products that are made and packaged in accordance with the well known standards of quality, weight and measure. Buying and selling on the basis of these standards protects my customers and my business."

"I know from experience that good newspaper advertising is the best way to tell people the news of my store. In my opinion, newspaper advertising is not only the most effective way for me to advertise, it is also the safest way. When I spend money in newspaper advertising I make my investment on the basis of verified circulation figures and values that are as well known and important in advertising as the standards of weight and quality that I use in my own business."

The information the grocer refers to is found in reports issued by the Audit Bureau of Circulation. This is a cooperative, independent association of 3,575 publishers, advertisers and advertising agencies. The work of the Bureau is to furnish advertisers with audited information about the circulation of its publisher members.

At regular intervals the A.B.C., of which this newspaper is a member, sends an experienced circulation auditor to make a thorough inspection and audit of our circulation records. The FACTS established by this audit are published in an A.B.C. report which tells you: How much circulation we have; where it goes; how obtained; how much people pay for our paper; and many other FACTS that you need in order to KNOW what you get for your advertising money.

Borstal System Training for Freedom

Modern trend in the battle against law-breakers is to make the sentence fit the criminal rather than the crime. Confinement is no longer considered enough; prison life must help the inmate to change to give society long-term protection.

Prisoners are sent to B.C.'s New Haven after a careful classification of their needs indicates that they would benefit from a program of intensive training under minimum security restrictions. An "open" Borstal-type institution, New Haven receives only offenders between the ages of 16-23, the years when habitual criminals

Shell announces two great new motor fuels, the successors to Shell Premium and Shell Gasoline the team that satisfies the octane needs of every make of car!

Now, regardless of the make of car you drive, you can have a fuel which automatically supplies the full octane value required for every driving situation.

Today's cars are built around the most powerful engines in motoring history. And the trend is aiming still higher.

Anticipating the need for higher grades of motor fuel, Shell Oil Company of Canada, Limited has introduced two brand new gasolines, Super Shell with TCP for high compression cars, and new Shell with TCP for all other cars.

Now you can choose the gasoline that will give you the finest performance your car can deliver—the gasoline which automatically supplies the full octane value your engine requires under every driving condition.

The combustion energy in these great new Shell motor fuels gives you an added bonus, too. When you're cruising, their reserve energy is converted to more miles in every tankful.

And not only do both of Shell's new motor fuels have much higher octane, both contain TCP. This patented additive neutralizes harmful engine deposits that cause loss of power, to assure you the continued peak performance and economy your engine was built to deliver.

For a new experience in motoring, see your Shell Dealer today for Super Shell in the new white pump or new Shell—both with TCP.

OLIE BURNSIDER walked up to his neighbor's when the moon rose. Wanted to find out a thing or two. Jennings Milton was a cattle man and had ought to know about law. That winkle field now— if he could just hang on to it for another six months—or was it a year?

Jen was on the porch, smoking his pipe. "Evening," he said to Olie. "Come on in."

Alot no need for Jen to always be so short with me, Olie thought. "No, I'll sit out here on the edge of the porch. Tell Murt I wouldn't stay but just a minute. . . . Pretty night, ain't it?"

"Yeah."

Murt's Adam's apple bobbed up and down before the next words came. "Well, welcome in. I know anything 'bout law, Jen?"

"Enough 't git by. Murt's you can say, I reckon."

"You're the man I want 't see, Murt." Olie said. "Alot there a law, Jen, what says don a man farm a piece of land seven years? Is he—man what farm it?"

"Murt's on your mind, Olie? That piece you call your 'winkle field'?"

"That's right, Jen." Olie drew one knee up against his chest and gripped it with both hands. "Hidin' it ought 't be mine by law in six months? Or is it a winkle bit my'n's that? Not long's a year, is it?"

Jen laughed. His white teeth gleamed in the moonlight. "You've hid it in your question in the one or two man's land, Olie. I done leaved it that Anne Langford section for patience. Means you gotta take down the fence from around your de-robbed winkle field?"

"Ain't there a law. . . ."

Jen said, "Murt's law dropped, 'bout-but, looky here, man—I can't dig my 'taters. Ain't I got my ease off that winkle field yet?"

Jen sat back in his rocker comfortably. "Well, I'd be within my rights, I reckon, 't order you 't take down the fence now. Just 't show you I got a head 't lay bare it once—till you can git your stuff off."

Olie helped for time. "Can ain't sweetened enough yet, Jen. . . . Ah, man, them 'taters ain't always ready 't be dug!"

Jen said, "But you had a head, didn't it? Well, reckon you can leave them 'taters on till frost kills the vines."

Olie rose from the porch. "The law says 't Murt. She's set her heart on that winkle field. Grubbed 'taters roots in there. Murt did."

Olie owned ten acres of swamp-land along the creek bank. Water comes up every summer and floods it. His place. Then when the law made it to shape to farm again the creek would drain it dry as a bone stick. A man couldn't raise a crop 't stick-tight on it, let alone come or 'taters."

Precious fall weather lasted into December. Jen came to see Olie. "Ain't dug them 'taters yet?" he asked.

"No, sho' ain't. You said dig 'em when frost killed the vines. Ain't done that yet?"

Jen jerked his horse's head up from nibbling the grass. "I'll be—dam-b! It's. . . . Mighty unusual weather, Olie. You can't see a thing."

"That's right. Had just enough cold weather 't make good crops?"

"Ain't no tiller 'treatin' said Jen Milton bitterly. "Them 'taters had ought 't be dug away!"

"One of your word, ain't you?" Olie asked. "Leas'tways that's the name you got round here."

Frost came a few weeks later, but only a few tender leaves were clipped. Then warm weather held until all danger of another freeze was past.

Again Jen went to see Olie. Olie grinned at him. "Ain't no use you boun't an a-crawin' like that, Jen. Won't be frost now until sometime in the fall. That winkle field is mine. I got squatter's claim 't it. Won't see of Judge James?"

"That squatter?" Jen knew in anger.

"Well, he sent me up once, Judge James did, but I thank him for puttin' me 't some side law. Olie Anne Langford slipped up on some of the fence on the winkle field seven years ago. I got them tax certificates now. The Judge says we I kicked off last fall—'Punny things 'bout law—and weather—eh, Jen?"

When N. R. Crump, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, was in Lindsay on August 2 as principal guest for the Industrial Day which will open at the Centennial Celebration, it will mark the 10th anniversary also of the arrival of railways in Lindsay, and the continuing association of the town with rail communication.

As a highlight of his visit, Mr. Crump's lone association with the town will be his inspection of the way work, from 1907 ago when the first rails were laid; he will recognize the many changes in transportation plans since that time.

During the day, the plan of the celebration, by the plan of the town's oldest citizens, will be closely connected through its many associations with the past and rail inspection over Canada.

On the eve of this Centennial Celebration we salute Lindsay! We pay homage to those who pioneered the town, commend those who are giving their time and life's energy to promote its welfare, and we anticipate the future with confidence. hadn't much in the way of to speak of. The very first ature to be constructed at the background of this pic- h) was the County Court or changes, it is virtually the as built.

After more modern means of transport made the river's role in trade less important, pleasure boating came into its own, and many Lindsay oldsters will recall the regular sailings of steam boats and cruisers from the town wharf to the various resort areas on nearby Sturgeon Lake. The turning basin at the Lindsay St. locks used to be crowded with boats, bringing Lindsaites back to town from their Sturgeon Lake cottages.

Deep in the yellow-rose pages of time,
Borne in love of freedom's divine—
Through labour pains and strength that wilded
Borne were born, that breathed and lived.
In faith and hope, those hearts of oak, one hundred years ago
Our founders toiled and awoke, and arose above their woes;
They turned the sod and planted, not seeking for reward;
And through the years of pluck and fear, it grew into a town.
Now, while we celebrate with joyful acclamation
May we conceive through our age, and give birth
And strive to match such quality with our worth !
Guard our revered relics, keep true to oath,
On the Sacred Volume light our troth,
With charity and brotherly love for sooth, —
Believing dauntless and loving truth.
Let the drama roll, and the trumpets blare their call
On with the Feast, the Music, Games and Ball;
And with triumphant echoes, citizens and men
Declare our liberty — free by speech and pen;
So that through the ages, countless people yet to be
May bless their inheritance too, through our history.

Canadian Arsenals Ltd. Lindsay

Preparedness Keystone of Security,
Head Of Lindsay Unit Declares

Canadian Arsenals Ltd., one of not only to provide normal requirements of munitions in peace which has played an important role in the country's economic life. For this "Canadian Arsenal" of "The Post" the man in charge of the industry—Col. E. M. Shields—has functioned as the crown company in national scheme of defence. Here are Col. Shields' remarks:

"Preparedness is the keystone of security as a nation. The availability of military equipment in sufficient quantities, when required, plays an important part. This can be achieved either by stockpiling large quantities of military end items or the provision of production facilities capable of rapid expansion in the event of war. The former is undesirable because, apart from the limited cost, the rate of obsolescence of the military equipment is much greater than that of production facilities.

"There is also the need for research and development to ensure that the most modern production equipment, materials and manufacturing methods, processes, and techniques are available when required. The shortage of some types of skilled tradesmen and technical personnel and the need time required for provision of machine tools are also very important factors.

"In consideration of the above, the Canadian Government in 1945 decided to form a crown company to be known as Canadian Arsenals Limited. This Company includes the best of each type of wartime munition plant and retains efficient skilled personnel, techniques, tools, and equipment.

Lindsay Firm Celebrating Birthday Too

A Lindsay electrical supply firm is looking forward to a birthday celebration this year of 1857.

The Town of Lindsay is marking its centennial. In October, the Morley Greave, Company Ltd. will have completed thirty years in this field.

Established in 1927, a Company spokesman says that this business was the first in Lindsay to be devoted exclusively to electrical appliances and electrical service, and is probably, from that standpoint, one of the oldest in the Province.

The location of the business has changed twice in 30 years, both times moving to larger quarters on the main street. Mr. Greave is extremely modest about the success of his business, and is quick to give credit to his associates.

Gerard Powell who has been with the firm for sixteen years, has assumed more and more of the responsibility, and blessing Goodbody who has been with the firm for over five years at technician. Mr. Greave has established himself as a valuable member of the staff.

Miss Ada Greave, Secretary-Treasurer of the firm, has, with the encouragement of her brother, undertaken a share of the civic work of the community, to which he feels every business should contribute. Miss Greave is this year serving as, Steward of the Town of Lindsay and Warden of the County of Victoria.

The foot bridge which spans the Scugog River and serves the residents of that area of town below King St. east of the river, is also a favorite swimming hole for many young people who use the swimming pool which was installed in Kawartha Park by the Lindsay Rotary Club. The bridge required many months of negotiation before it was finally built and it has been dubbed "Rainbow Bridge." Original request to have the bridge constructed came from Mr. J. G. Schorria, former manager of Kniters Limited. Previous to its erection employees of the plant living on the west bank of the river south of Kent Street were forced to walk considerably farther in order to reach their work.

Fire Chief Watson Congratulates Town

Fire Chief A. Watson has extended his congratulations to Lindsay on its 185th anniversary.

Quote Mr. Watson: "As Chief of the Lindsay Fire Department I would like to pay tribute to the past members of the three. Those men without benefit of modern training and equipment, did a good job for Lindsay.

"The fire department is a 'backbone' of the town and the present staff join with me in offering our congratulations to Lindsay on its 185th birthday."

MACKEY FUNERAL HOME 21 PEELE STREET

The Mackey Funeral Home and Furniture Store had its beginnings way back in the year 1860. In that year, John Anderson was undertaker and also a cabinet-maker by trade, maintained a cabinet and furniture factory in a little self-contained community now known as the Town of Lindsay. The factory, which was erected just south of the present Pioneer Home and Chapel on Peel Street, was destroyed by fire in the year 1960.

In 1862, the founder, John Anderson died. John William Anderson, a nephew of the deceased and Robert Huggins, both of whom had been connected with the Anderson Enterprise, continued the business under a new partnership as Anderson, Huggins & Company.

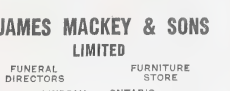

After the death of Robert Huggins in 1918, John William Anderson incorporated the business in the name of John Anderson Limited. An opportunity was given an energetic young man, James Mackey, who came from Wilton, Ontario, and who had made a member of the firm in 1919. After the death of John William Anderson in March 1924, James Mackey, an active man in the Town of Lindsay, decided the operation of the company should be in the name of John Anderson Limited.

In 1946, the firm was incorporated under the name of James Mackey & Sons Limited.

James Mackey continued the directing of both the Funeral Home, located at 21 Peel Street and the Furniture Store located at 136-8 Kent Street in Lindsay, until his death in the summer of 1960.

Since the death of James Mackey, the management has been carried on by his three sons, Linden, Gordon and Jim Mackey.

The staff of James Mackey & Sons Limited take pleasure in contemplating the Town of Lindsay on its first progress over this past 185 years.

Passing Scene

Cornet parades always attracted crowds to Lindsay from olden days. The two pictures shown here are significant in that the lower photo is among the earliest big cornet parades while the one at the top is possibly the last one that will ever see. The Lindsay cornet band has recently become virtually extinct because of numerous parading stunts. The steam engine in the background in the lower picture was one of the very last on the road.

Guest Book

Since Lindsay's Centennial Celebration weekend, August 2-4, will be many ways a homecoming for former residents, and a visit of the town on many of them will be looking for old friends and relatives who may also visit. The Chamber of Commerce is planning to open a guest registration and information service for the benefit of these visitors.

A special registry will be kept of all Centennial visitors, their addresses and where they are staying in town.

Anyone who expects Centennial guests is requested to have them register at the Chamber of Commerce office on arrival. Send for it.

Centennial Celebration Features Square Dance Competition

Lindsay's role with the surrounding countryside, from visitors many of the citizens came originally, will be headlined on the second day of the Centennial Celebrations, August 3.

Should the guests wish to contact former friends, who might be in town, they should be referred to the Chamber for assistance in locating old friends. The Chamber office will be open all day Friday, Saturday and Monday during the Centennial weekend.

and also on Sunday afternoon. Set 2, with a square dance competition, open to all Victoria County groups, will be held in conjunction with a public street dance.

The contest is being conducted through the Recreation Centre, and invitations have gone out to over 50 groups. It is expected between 15 and 20 acts will participate.

The Centennial Committee, to promote the contest, felt it would result for many older residents the day, when such dances were the rule, rather than the exception. The emergence of interest across Canada in this form of social recreation is also being recognized in scheduling such an event.

A popular Victoria County band led by Melvin Brink, will provide the music for the competition and dance.

WILLIAM ST. 1862

There have been some changes made on William Street as readers can see from the above picture taken in the year 1862, five years after the first Town Council was chosen to manage the town's affairs. The took its toll of the early built, a s on part of this street, and cleaned out a lot of frame construction premises which made way for the more durable brick structures which line the streets today. Among the first more substantial buildings to be erected on William Street is that which houses "The Post".

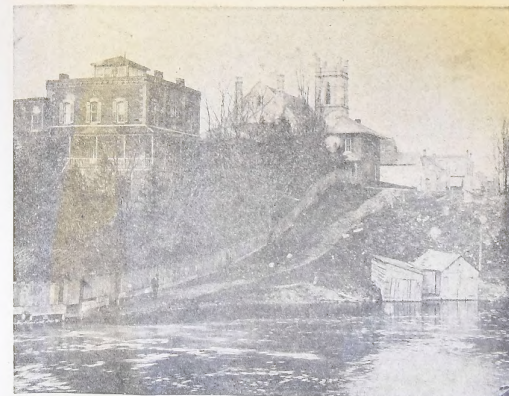

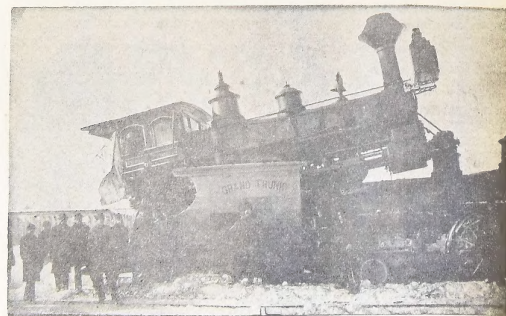

Early Lindsay

Division Point Disasters

A railway town for much of its long life Lindsay was the scene of relatively few major train mishaps but when they occurred they attracted widespread attention. At the left are two scenes from the most recent railway accident. This one occurred two winters ago when a south-bound maple train from Hamilton hit a line truck. No one was injured in the accident but it took wrecking crew and railway auxiliary train several hours to put things right again. Crowds lined the C.N.R. Victoria Ave. north railway the throughout the clean-up operation. The scene below was photographed as a wreck which was really a wreck. It happened when an old Grand Trunk engine rolled up on top of the snowplow at- tachment of another en- gine during a blinding snowstorm. No one was injured in this accident either but as can be im- agined getting the piggy- back engine off the snow- plow took the railway men- power of that winter day. It was also the cause of widespread interest and accident of its kind in this region. Lindsay, a division point of the C.N.R. is also serviced by the Canadian Pacific Railway whose line ranges through the ex- tremely developed rail- town industrial area. The near site ruin between Division on the south and Kelowna on the north.

How Lindsay looked many years ago is depicted in these scenes of the town from an old collection. First from the top is a picture of Lindsay's east ward looking north from a point along the river embankment. Im- mediately below are two shots of King Street, second from the top a view of the main street looking west (note the tree bough decorations). The bottom photo is a view of the river embankment looking towards St. Andrew's Church in the background.

Sylvester Name Long Associated With Industrial, Cultural Life Of Lindsay Town

Secretary-manager of the Lindsay Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Ed May is optimistic concerning the future development of the century-old town of his adoption. Mr. May has been closely associated with industrial promotion work since becoming attached to the Lindsay unit.

Penelope Pyle, July 29, 1957
The Post,
Lindsay, Ontario.
Dear Sir:
Penelope Pyle Branch of the Canadian Legion joins in sincere felicitations to the Town of Lindsay on its Centennial Celebration.
The bond of comradeship links our Branch with Lindsay, Ontario, and the citizens in general.

Around the year 1878 Richard Sylvester moved from Enniskillen (south of Lindsay) where he had been manufacturing all types of farm implements. He built the present factory on a site which was formerly a drill hall and exhibition park. He continued making farm implements. As the turn of the century he started making auto (trucks and gasoline engines) until the year 1908. At this time Tudhope and Anderson of Orillia, who owned the rights to sell drills, ploughs and other implements and sought the manufacturing in Orillia. Mr. Sylvester took two away of men and two auto inventors to the town, and for five years thrived out their each season.

"The Sylvester Place"

Long referred to as "The Sylvester Place", the beautiful old Lindsay building shown above has since been converted to apartments and is now owned by Mr. Ray Nelson.

Soon after he moved to Lindsay he purchased property near Owen Sound at Victoria Park and moved houses from the land and donated land to the Federal Government for Ammunitions and the balance of land he donated to the town for a park. He lived on the south-west corner of Peel and Victoria Ave. (the apartment now owned by Mr. Ray Nelson). Mr. Sylvester operated a busy, long known as the Sylvester Bros. Band from the time of his coming to Lindsay until the year 1908. Here are a few of the names of men who played with the Sylvester Bros. Band: Bill Barwick, Bandmaster, Bill Bufferton, Fred Taylor, Mark Balle, Alf Balle, and (Hank) Chalmers.

In the 1890's he manufactured gas lighting fixtures for a number of businesses in Lindsay. On the property of the town there was a very strong spring of water. To control this spring he dug out many yards of concrete in it to cap the flow of and give sufficient pressure to make it run to the top of his house. Also, from this spring he dug the foundation of the Town of Lindsay and Yorkville, Penelope Pyle Village and the Hotel Legions. This material was created by the three named municipalities in honor of those who fought and died in World Wars I and II and the Korean campaign. Press for its re-decoration on September 8th, next, are now in process of formation.

Young truly,
Canadian Legion Branch 238

ing post and track gauge; for the railway in Canada. This business the continuing until the present time. At no indication of the low level of Sylvester engine, parts are still being supplied for engines that were built before 1908. In 1948 an engine was received from a U.S. man regarding a marine engine or engine that was built in 1906 or 1908.

On March 31, 1948, Sylvester Manufacturing Company was purchased by Mr. K. O. Macdonald and the firm name was changed to Sylvester Steel Products Company Limited.

It was found that wood frame motor cars were not meeting the requirements of the railroad as to weight, design, etc. It was necessary to redesign and rebuild the shop completely to make a lightweight steel frame section motor car and a laboratory aluminum frame inspection car. The company went along with maintenance of Way Department of the railroad developing the present product for the last six or seven years. They expect to have developed their product to the point where it is competitive with similar products manufactured in the U.S.A.

The company has extended activities in the last two years with its affiliated company as well as manufacturing producing for the railways.

It has in the past two years, manufactured a shaft motor, for shaft, Machines Limited, Toronto. This machine is used for shafting in mines. Through a subsidiary Sylvester Distributors Limited, this new company acts as distributors for a number of American railway lines as well as replacement parts for bulldozer equipment, including rollers, track shoes, etc. Other generators, roller skis, and Jason Air Pistols.

Fae Motors Limited was established in 1922 by E. D. (Ernie) Fae and at that time the entire staff consisted of four people. In the succeeding years the company has increased its facilities for the motorists of Lindsay and district by adding special departments, supervised by an efficient staff, equipped to handle all types of motor vehicles. The growth of the company has proceeded with the growth and modernization of the Town of Lindsay. Dealers of Chevrolet and Chevrolet trucks Fae Motors are one of the leaders in the automotive industry over a large area.

MANAGEMENT

Mr. K. G. (Ken) Richmond is the general Manager and Vice-President of the Company and has been associated with the firm since 1925.

SERVICE DEPT.

One of the best equipped service departments to be seen anywhere in the town. Under the capable guidance of Mr. Bill Lee, Large, experienced and capable of handling the smallest car to the biggest truck. This department has kept pace with the latest developments of the industry.

CAR SALES DEPT.

This department is under the direction of Mr. Stanley Rodman and contains a large stock of used cars at all times as well as the new Chevrolet and Oldsmobile cars. A large used car lot is situated on the west end of the town where every vehicle is available for sale. Every car is inspected and every car is guaranteed.

BODY SHOP

The Body and Paint shop is supervised by Mr. Stan Edwards who has been associated with Fae Motors from 1928. Service and Satisfaction are the main reasons for success of this department.

PARTS DEPT.

This department is always stocked with the latest parts for all makes of cars. Mr. E. D. Corley is in charge.

One of Lindsay's oldest homes is that one occupied by Mr. Joe O'Neill, 131 Kent St. E. An excellently preserved log structure, it is a tribute to the pioneer skill of early settlers.

Centennial Pageant Depicts Early Lindsay

A new attraction has been announced for Centennial Weekend, August 2 - 3. Recreation Director John Thoren has announced that the children of St. Mary's playground, under their leader, Anne Crowley, propose to present a Centennial pageant, with several historical aspects of the town's history, during the Centennial week.

Plans for the presentation are already underway. John Humphreys, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Humphreys, conceived the idea and did the initial research on it. The children at the playground have become quite enthused about the venture and are starting to work on it already.

It is planned to use as many of the children from the playground as possible in the series of scenes or skits. Some of the scenes will represent the early exploration of the Kawartha region, settlement, railways, industry, schools, churches, etc. A narrator will explain the significance of each to the audience. There will be few speaking parts.

Arrangements are being made through the Recreation office. While it has been proposed to hold the play at the Recreation Hall, if

Ministers Travel Home For Lindsay's Centennial Services

While several Lindsay ministers are at present absent from their church on vacation or exchange, most will travel home on Centennial weekend, August 2 - 3, to conduct the special Centennial services on that Sunday.

Relevant information on the town's history and church background has been forwarded to ministers, who are expected to draw up their own form of Centennial observance service. No general pattern has been established.

With thousands of visitors expected for the weekend, many of them natives of the town or former residents, Sunday in the churches August 4, should get many residents and acquaintances reunited, as they return to their former places of worship to recall almost 100 years of church history in Lindsay.

Plans are being made to find a more suitable site, where more of the public might be accommodated.
